

COMPAQ

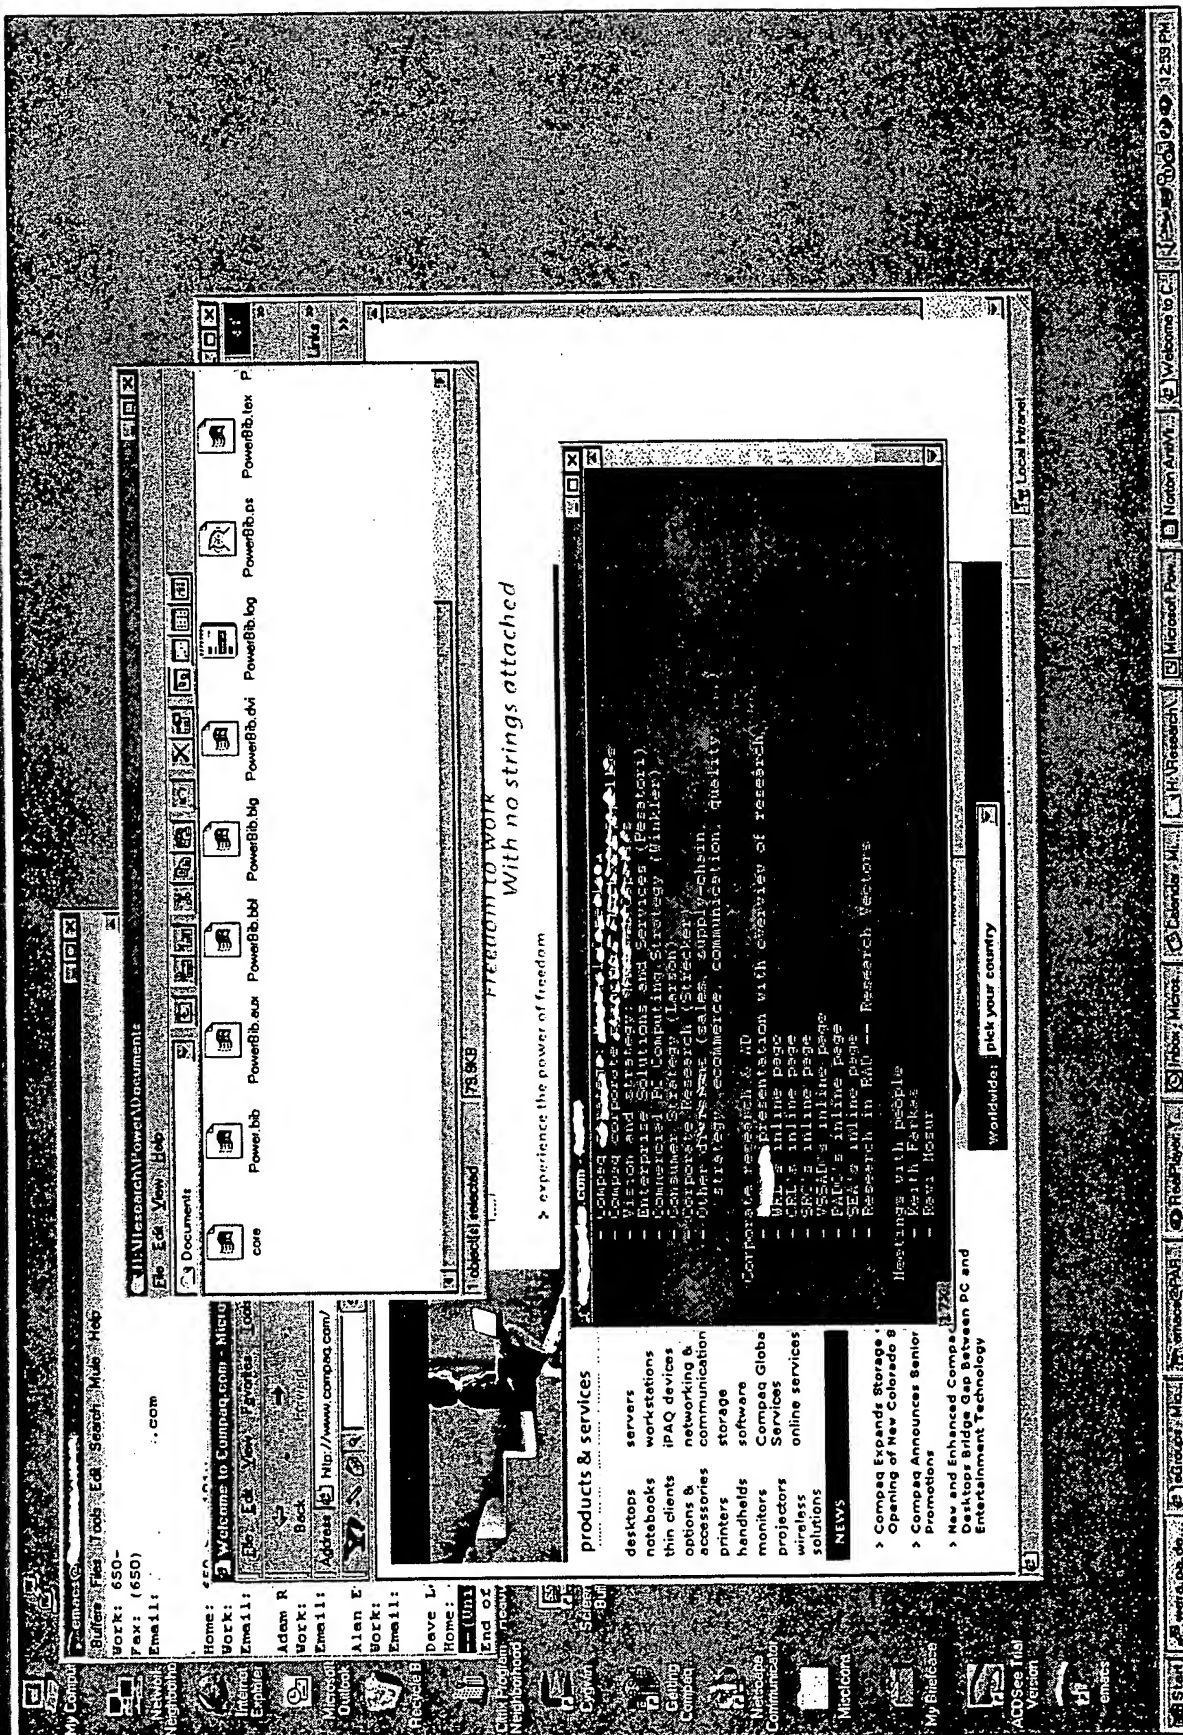

Fig. 1A

The screenshot shows a Windows 95 desktop environment. A Netscape browser window is the primary focus, displaying the Compaq website. The browser's address bar shows 'http://www.compaq.com/'. The website has a dark background with white text. On the left side of the website, there is a vertical navigation menu with links such as 'Products & Services', 'Desktops', 'Notebooks', 'Thin Clients', 'Options & Accessories', 'Printers', 'Handhelds', 'Monitors', 'Projectors', 'Wireless Solutions', and 'Servers'. The main content area of the website features a large heading 'With no strings attached' and a list of services and products. Below this, there is a section titled 'Meetings with people' and another titled 'Research in R&D'. The desktop has several icons, including 'My Computer', 'Recycle Bin', and 'Internet Explorer'. The taskbar at the bottom shows the Start button and several open applications, including 'Netscape', 'PowerBib.doc', 'PowerBib.log', 'PowerBib.ps', and 'PowerBib.tex'. The system clock in the bottom right corner shows '12:53 PM' on '10/10/95'.
